Last-Minute Canvass Of Congressmen Reveals Situation Is Not Certain

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Fate of the administration's request for longer service for draftees and other soldiers lies in the hands of 40 undecided members of the house, checkups by leaders of both parties disclosed today.

A last-minute canvass on what has become one of the most bitter struggles of the session showed party heads that they can expect about 190 certain votes for the bill and 180 sure ones against it.

Forty In Doubt

This leaves 40 in doubt to give a total roll of 410 out of a membership of 435—an unusually high vote expectancy.

Democratic whips, who have been keeping a close check on their colleagues in the controversial matter, said that a survey made since the senate approved the extension bill showed that 44 house Democrats definitely will vote for it, 180 will vote for it, and 30 are still in doubt.

Republicans said that 136 of their members will oppose the extension, 10 will vote for it, and 10 are undecided.

The polls came as the house, with feeling running high on both sides, rested over the week end and pre-

PA NEW OBSERVES

One of Pa New's young ladies, sewing a run in her stocking, smilingly explained to her co-workers this morning that she was "doing a little defense work."

Having strayed away to the Keshamock river, early this week, for a dip, a little boy in the East Side district was reprimanded, and Friday afternoon his mother saw that he took his dip in a galvan-ized tub of water on the lawn, under the trees. Safety first.

In the front window of The News office on North Mercer street is displayed a large framed picture of the late Tim Hennessy, who years ago was a familiar sight to residents in all parts of the city.

Is the game of "jacks" still intact? Pa New didn't think so until a few nights ago when he was driving along the east side and saw a couple engaged in the pastime. The front porch was the battle scene.

Officially, the first day of autumn occurs on Tuesday, September 23, at 5:33 a. m.

Little evidence of saving gasoline could be seen in the dense traffic that was moving through this city steadily today. All morning unusually heavy traffic was evident on the downtown streets, especially on through routes.

Russians Destroying Towns, Factories, Crops Before Forces Withdraw

By PIERRE J. HUSS

WITH THE FINNISH ARMY INSIDE RUSSIA, Aug. 9.—As I write this today I am sitting in a foxhole in a dense wood that hides the scars of battle.

But on the horizon rolling clouds of smoke—like a gigantic forest fire—bear grim evidence to Soviet Premier Josef Stalin's orders to his countrymen to lay waste the land before abandoning it.

These "scorched earth" orders are being carried out on a devastating scale.

Nothing Left Intact

I don't know what lies ahead, but behind me from the new Russo-

Finnish border northeast to Lake Ladoga to this particular foxhole in the forest not a single Russian factory or town has been left intact.

The route of the Russian retreat is marked everywhere by destruction—30-foot high fire-blackened stone chimneys and piles of charred debris.

Large stretches of valuable forests have been burned.

A few of the Russian crops were still too green to burn and some of the Russian village huts, built of roughly hewn wood with narrow slits of windows, were too worthless to burn.

But otherwise the picture is one

Economic Sanctions Remain Against Japan Unless Aggression Halts

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The United States government, it was learned today, plans strict enforcement of the present drastic economic sanctions against Japan as long as there is reason to believe the Nippon empire contemplates further aggressive action in the Far East, especially against Thailand.

No licenses are being granted by the government to facilitate the importation of Japanese silk into this country, and it is understood that few, if any, are likely to be granted unless there is a lessening of tension in the Pacific.

May Relax Somewhat

If Japan gives evidence of abandoning what are believed to be its designs on Thailand, and refrains from further aggressive action in the Pacific, this government, informed quarters indicated, will be willing to consider relaxation of the present economic sanctions and a gradual resumption of "peace-time" trade with the Nippon empire.

Although trade between the United States and Japan remains virtually at a standstill, the American government has not yet clamped down a complete economic embargo. Shipment of crude petroleum products to Japan still is permitted on a pre-

Young Farmer Meets Death In Crash On Steep Highway Hill

KITTANNING, Pa., Aug. 9.—Glenn R. Geiger, 26-year-old farmer of near Lancaster, was killed instantly early today when his automobile rammed into the rear end of a trailer-truck while descending steep Edgewood hill nearby.

His uncle, Walter B. Geiger, 55, of Oxford R. D. 2, Lancaster county, escaped with minor injuries. Both occupants were spilled out of the car, which continued downhill about 180 feet before overturning against an embankment.

Armstrong County Coroner C. M. Woodward said the driver apparently fell asleep at the wheel while descending the steep grade.

Park Policeman Held In Attack

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 9.—Assertions by a 26-year-old special park policeman that he was "blind drunk" when he allegedly attacked an 18-year-old girl were rejected today by police following chemical tests which did not reveal evidence that the policeman, Edward Larkin, had been drinking to any appreciable extent.

A warrant charging Larkin with criminal assault had been sworn to. According to the girl's story, she and her escort were sitting in a parked car in the Gordon Park when Larkin approached, accused them of improper conduct and forced them to accompany him to the park superintendent's office.

There, she said, Larkin locked her escort in a room, and assaulted her.

Strikers Ask U. S. Take Over Plant

Present Request In Strike Situation At Kearny Shipbuilding Plant

(International News Service)

KEARNY, N. J., Aug. 9.—The U.
S. government today had before it a request of 17,000 C. I. O. shipbuilding strikers who walked out of their jobs at the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. Thursday to take over the yards and operate them in the interests of national defense.

The request was contained in a statement issued by Peter Flynn, vice president of local 16, Industrial Workers of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, which said:
"Local 16 calls on the United States government to take over the Federal shipbuilding yards and operate them in the interests of national defense."

The company's bad taste in dealing with our union in defiance of the ruling of the national defense mediation board granting local 16 modified union shop, its willingness to keep the yard closed indefinitely rather than to agree to a fair adjustment—all these failures of management to fulfill its responsibilities make it imperative for the government to act at once.

The 17,000 strikers are just as anxious to go back to work and resume building ships as the rest of the American people are to get those ships built. But they cannot do so while a stubborn company management demands the power to carry on a ceaseless battle against the union and its membership."

British Libyan garrison at Tobruk—surrounded, bombed and battered by Axis forces since Germany first came to the aid of Italians in Af-been making consistent attempts

LIEUTENANT MACCLURE AND THUNDERBOLT

The United States Army is planning new strategy for defeating ant of a long line of Scottish falconers. The weapon is Thunderbolt, and enemy parachute troops. The falcons will be armed, so they say, with knives on their chests in addition to their own wicked talons.

Huge List Of Nazi Wounded In Russia

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—N. B. C.
today picked up a report broadcast on the official Berlin wavelength stating that one single squadron of Junkers 52 transport planes had ferried 281,000 wounded German soldiers from the central sector of the Russo-German front.

The broadcast revealed that 15 planes were used to carry the wounded soldiers over a period of 48 days—from June 22 (when the war began) through August 8.

The account was given in two separate broadcasts, both heard by N. B. C. The first was in German, the second in English.

Editor's note: Multiplying this
German wounded would mount into near-astronomical proportions. And considering the small percentage of wounded which would be brought back by plane instead of regular land transport, the figure would be hiked again to an almost impossible figure. If other wounded also were brought back by other squadrons, carrying even a small percentage of wounded with which the single Junkers unit was credited with ferrying—then there wouldn't be much of the German army left. According to the German communiques of today, recounting new victory after new victory, there's a great deal of the German army still in the Senate Committee To Re-

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—
Sen. George (D) Ga.,
chairman of the Senate Finance committee, predicted today that it will comply with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's request to increase the yield of the House-passed tax bill to at least $3,500,000,000.

George said that although a general program to form the basis for the proposed increase is yet to be worked out it will probably be brought about through broadening the income tax base, increasing the surplus bracket and revising or re-adjusting other levies.

"We will go up to $3,500,000,000 and perhaps a little bit beyond that
preserving the economic system," George said.

"I think," he added, "that some program will be worked out that will carry out in principle at least most of the recommendations of the secretary of the treasury, although there will probably be some differences of opinion."

Not Approved

George said however that he does not favor the treasury recommendations to increase the 5 per cent surplus bracket approved by the House to 11 per cent, and predicted that it will meet strong opposition in the committee.

"I think that the increase in the surplus bracket to 11 per cent would be exceedingly high," George said,
"and it seems questionable to me

Two Survivors Of Zam Zam Still On Nazi Raider

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The German government has notified the United States that two wounded American survivors of the Egyptian liner Zam Zam are still aboard the Nazi raider which sunk that vessel in the south Atlantic some time ago.

The two survivors, both ambulance drivers, are Francis Viovari of New York and Ned Laughing-house, of Wilson, N. C.

In response to repeated inquiries from the American embassy in Berlin concerning the welfare of the two men, the German government notified this government that the two survivors are still aboard the raider and it could not be definitely stated when they would be brought ashore.

Both men were said to be too seriously wounded at the time of the sinking of the Zam Zam to be transferred to the German ship which brought the other American survivors to a French port.

To Start Gas Reduction Campaign

One Third Cut Is Aim In State

Governor James To Launch Campaign For Voluntary Reduction In Consumption

LIAISON OFFICER TO BE APPOINTED

HARRISBURG, Aug. 9.—Gov. Arthur H. James will open a campaign next week for a one-third voluntary reduction of gasoline consumption by motorists and will appoint a liaison officer to head the campaign. It was disclosed today by Dr. Arnaud C. Marts, executive director of the state defense council following a conference with federal officials.

This plan of operation was agreed upon by the governor after Marts conferred at Washington with National Petroleum Co-ordinator Harold L. Ickes and Director of Civilian Defense Fiorello H. LaGuardia.

The governor will issue an appeal to motorists next week through the medium of newspaper advertisements paid for by the federal government to conserve gasoline. The liaison officer, who will take charge of the campaign will spend several days next week in Washington studying plans for the conservation of gasoline.

Marts said he had informed LaGuardia that considerable confusion had resulted because orders issued by the civilian defense council were being sent to local defense councils, instead of to the governor's office, as had been previously agreed upon.

LaGuardia is added was "charged" to learn that there had been a "misunderstanding" between state and national defense officials, and the New York mayor immediately called Governor James on the telephone and arranged for P. S. Walmsley to come to Harrisburg and work out details of co-operation. Marts said, LaGuardia's aide is expected to arrive Monday.

war quota basis and the Japanese are being granted liberal access to Philippine products.

Should Japan decide to defy the western powers and resort to further aggressive action in the Far East, especially in the southern Pacific, the official indications are that this government will impose a complete embargo.

Must Halt Aggression

The American government's position is that it is prepared to engage in "peace-time" trade with Japan providing there are no further acts of aggression, but that it no longer intends to permit the Japanese to use the benefits of American trade for the purpose of strengthening the Nippon military machine.

Those who are entrusted with the handling of American foreign affairs grant this new Far Eastern policy sanctions and strong diplomatic pressure against Japan involves a considerable risk of war between the United States and the Nippon empire.

However, they believe they are carrying out the will of the American people in pursuing this policy. They feel that the nation must be aware of the policy adopted by the administration and they regard the apparent lack of any widespread opposition from the American people as an endorsement of that policy.

MOSCOW SAYS SOVIET BOMBERS IN BERLIN RAID of incendiary bombs on the city and all returning safely to their bases.

Attack On Berlin

According to the Moscow radio, military targets in several Berlin districts were attacked by the Russian bombers and a number of fires and explosions were observed.

The London Daily Express reported from Stockholm that Russian 4-motored TB bombers from bases on the Baltic coast and Dagoe Islands raided Berlin, heavily damaging industrial districts.

The Daily Mail, in a Stockholm dispatch, said it was understood the Russian pilots and bombardiers were supplied with copies of R. A. F. photographs of Berlin's principal military objectives.

Meanwhile, the Russian high command communique told of fierce fighting on the fronts covering Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev. It said:

"Our troops fought the enemy in the directions of Kexholm, Smolensk, Kirovsk, Belyaya-Tserkov and on the Lomonosov sector."

Ridicule German Claims

"The air force dealt blows to enemy panzer troops and infantry and attacked aircraft and air-dromes. Twenty-one German aircraft were destroyed on Aug. 7 while we lost 14."

"On the afternoon of Aug. 7 our fighters shot down a German reconnaissance aircraft near Moscow. The crew was captured."

The Moscow radio continued its campaign to ridicule the recent German victory claims—broadcasting an English-language skit entitled "much ado about nothing."

The broadcast parodied the four special German victory communications. Simultaneously the Russian navy organ Red Fleet listed German naval losses in the Russo-German conflict as follows:

Thirteen submarines, 10 destroyers, 3 patrol boats, 2 monitors, 2 cutters, 1 trawler and more than 30 transport vessels.

Most of these ships were said to have been lost in the Baltic sea, where a number of Russo-German sea skirmishes have been reported.

LOWER INCOME TAX EXEMPTIONS MAY GET SENATE FAVOR

that the committee would go that far.

The Georgia senator said that in all probability the committee will accept President Roosevelt's proposal that new exemptions in the personal income brackets might be at $1,500 for married couples and $700 for single persons. The House bill kept the present rates of $2,000 exemption for married couples and $800 for single persons.

George said that the House recommendation of a $5 use tax for the operation of automobiles has its merits because it would reach approximately 30,000,000 people, but added that "I have not yet made up my mind on it." George said also that the proposal is receiving "questionable" consideration from other members of the committee.

Renews Fight

Testifying before the committee as it began hearings on the House-passed bill, Morgenthau renewed his fight for joint income tax returns, but George again threw cold water on the proposal, rejected by the House.

"I am still of the opinion that a majority of the committee will let the joint returns proposal lie where it is for a year or so," George said.

George said that the committee will resume hearings on the bill Monday when representatives of business, industry and taxpayers will be heard.

Complying with Morgenthau's request for speedy consideration of the measure, George said that he will attempt to complete hearings in two weeks. It is estimated that the committee will take an additional week in executive session to write changes into the House measure.

pared to start actual voting on amendments to the bill early next week.

As the senate passed it, the measure provides for 18 months more service for drafted National Guardsmen, and regular personnel, while the house committee is backing its recommendation for an unlimited extension of service.

Tough Struggle

Faced with what they openly admit is going to be "a tough, close struggle," house Democratic leaders were conferring over concessions they may make in last minute efforts to pick up votes.

While they are still waiting for further crystallization of opinion there were strong indications the leadership may agree to an amendment to provide a one-year limitation on extra service.

Lineup on the measure is both sectional and partisan. The most solid bloc is that made up of Democrats from the intervention-minded south, who virtually to a man will support the bill in any form.

The Republicans, on the other hand, are almost solidly opposed to it with the exception of scattered defections, mainly from the New England and eastern seaboard delegations.

Wide splits, however, are reported among the northern and middle western Democrats, with most of the west coast Democrats favoring the proposal since tightening of the foreign situation in the Pacific.

In the northern states where there are large numbers of Democrats administration leaders concede that most of them from Pennsylvania and Indiana will go against the bill, and that there will be wide defections from the party in the delegations from Illinois, New York, Ohio, Michigan, Missouri and New Jersey.

BERLIN REPORT SAYS 38,600 MORE PRISONERS TAKEN

military quarters hailed what they called "the end of the first week of decisive operations on the eastern front."

The week, they said, was marked by brilliant successes in the southern sector "while operations in other sectors also are progressing most satisfactorily." The present tide of battle, they said, is comparable to the Artois conflict in the Battle of Flanders which ended in the Dunkirk disaster.

Refusing to deny or confirm that Russian planes had reached Berlin during the night, the authorized quarters said:

"We are not interested in London or Moscow reports."

Cites Prisoners

Meanwhile, the official communique told of great numbers of prisoners and was material captured in new Ukrainian front actions. At least 103,000 prisoners, the statement said, were captured along with 317 tanks, 858 field guns, 5,280 motor trucks and other arms and munitions.

The war bulletin said the new triumph for the Nazi Panzer units represented the strategic consequences of the heavy fighting which Chancellor Hitler's field headquarters had promised to the German nation a few days ago.

It was claimed that in this vast and bloody defeat the Red forces had suffered their heaviest casualties so far. German authorities said the battle presaged complete collapse of Russian military power.

The latest supplementary communique followed earlier official assertions of a shattering German victory in the north and authorities stated the Soviet defenses were giving way at both ends. It was contended that both Leningrad on the north and Odessa to the south are virtually under siege.

In the Ukraine, the high command said, the heaviest fighting occurred around Uman, midway between Kiev and Odessa, where the three Russian field armies were trapped and destroyed. The ruined 25 Russian divisions were described as including infantry, tank and mountain units. The commanding generals of the sixth and twelfth field armies were captured.

Indicating the strategic Kiev-Odessa railroad had been captured, the communique announced two fully loaded supply trains were seized by the Germans.

RUSSIANS DESTROY TOWNS AND FACTORIES BEFORE WITHDRAWING

of destruction, carried out with a lavish hand.

Real "Ghost Towns"

The forsaken villages behind me are real "ghost towns," for their entire populations have fled. In some of them, after mopping up operations, Finnish soldiers have taken over the houses that still stand—after first cleaning them out and then fumigating them.

Throughout my entire trip to the various regions of this part of the front I have not seen a newly-constructed Russian building save one, and that had not been completed. It was a factory foundation, with black marble guestones from a nearby cemetery used as a corner stone.

Closer to the front I saw larger Russian factories, all decorated with statues of Lenin and Stalin, most of which had been at least partially smashed by the fighting.

Recently, however, Finnish authorities ordered as many as possible of these statues to be saved for exhibition in Finnish museums.

HIGH PRESSURE METHODS USED TO BOOST CANAL

"The administration was afraid it couldn't get enough votes to pass the seaway bill alone so it was high pressured into the Omnibus bill," Bender asserted.

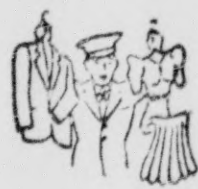

Bender contended that by including the controversial seaway project in a bill containing the proposed "pet" improvements of congressmen from all parts of the country, the administration sought to obtain support from legislators who ordinarily would oppose the waterway.

"What disturbed me was the fact that some Democrats and Republicans who have been opposed to the seaway right along voted to recommend it when it was put in the Omnibus bill," Bender added.

In a message to Congress last June, President Roosevelt urged passage of a bill to authorize construction of the seaway as a vital defense project.

White Sidewall Tires Prohibited By Order Of OPM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The OPM today issued an order prohibiting manufacture of white sidewall automobile tires after midnight August 23 in what it said was a step to conserve the nation's rubber supplies.

OPM Priorities Director E. R. Stettinius, Jr., estimated that cessation of white sidewall manufacture will save more than 6,000 tons of crude rubber a year, or over 13,000,000 pounds.

Stettinius explained that manufacture of white wall tires consumes approximately two pounds of rubber more than the production of ordinary black tires. He also declared that the order would save some zinc, which in oxide form, is used in the coloring of white sidewalls.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D.

VALUE OF RELIGION FOR A CHILD

I seldom attend a religious service without trying to see the values this service seems to have for the child and parent.

Wishing to broaden our understanding, my wife and I have, over a period of years, attended religious services of practically every faith.

Moral Values For All

We conclude that in all these groups are values for the child and his parents. All of them magnify the sacredness of marriage, the child and family life. All center their attention on things not made with hands or bought with price. All exalt spiritual values as against material values. All put emphasis on self-sacrifice and self-denial, now far more enduring values later.

Parents, as a rule, have not brought up children to be amply generous in supporting religious programs from their own purse. How many children, for example, contribute to the Sunday school or church, on Sunday, as much as they paid for an afternoon's fun?

With all our advancement in knowledge, science and invention, we are not sure we have made much progress in the uses we have put them to. We still need to improve in discerning values which won't perish. Religion seems to offer us an avenue for arriving at these values.

Mental Health

Religion also offers mental health values, in this anxious, jittery generation. It encourages hopeful striving upward. The very nature of worship favors meditation, serenity, repose.

Even if we consider only the value to citizenship, if we are thinking chiefly of a fit community in which to rear our children, we can afford to give moral and financial support to one or more churches in the community.

You and I rejoice that we live in a nation in which any person is free to worship as he chooses or not at all. It is not enough, however, that we are guaranteed this liberty. We also need to cultivate in ourselves and our children a broad tolerance toward the religious beliefs and practices of all other persons in our midst.

The World and the Mud Puddles

ARMY SLANG.

Have you heard any of the modern English spoken by the draftees serving in the various encampments of the county or have you received any letters from them, in which they write about "jeeps" and "peeps", "hell buggies" and "pop-sicles", "doodlebugs", "tubs" and "scatter guns"? The veterans of the last World War cannot help you in the least to translate them.

Now there has been a glossary published in the July-August issue of Army Ordnance. From this it is learned that among recent slang expressions coined by the personnel of the new American Army, the word "jeep" means a command car; "peep" (son of a jeep), means a banian car; a "hell buggy" is a tank; and so is a "doodlebug"; a "tub" is a scout car, and as you may have guessed, a "scatter gun" is a machine gun; and a "pop-sicle" is a motorcycle. Also, a "gasoline cowboy" is a member of the armored force; a "sky winder" is an air corps man; "little poison" is a 387-mm. gun; "iron horse" is another name for a tank; "jumping jeep" is an autogun with jump take-off; and "gravel agitator" is an infantryman.

Did you know that a "rat race" is a mounted reporter; that a "dit da artist" is a radio operator; that a "homeing device" is a pass or furlough; that a "button chopper" is the laundry; and that the "Cross-bar Hotel" is the guardhouse? Or that to "button up" is to close a tank; to "hit the silk" is to use a parachute; to "fly the iron beam" is to pilot a plane along a railroad route; and to "fly the wet beam" is to soar along a river?

This is a strange language, of course. This "jeeping" and "peeping" of the tongue that Shakespeare spoke leaves us in a state known as a "cockpit fog", which can be translated as mentally lost.

What's What At A Glance

Walsh, Reynolds, White House Headaches
Chairmen Of Important Senate Committees
Both Ask For Big Armies And Navies—But

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Ordinarily the senate's final committee chairmanship races as the most important in the upper congressional chamber. Just now maybe the most sizzling of all senatorial chairmanships is the one at the head of foreign affairs committee. The army and navy committees are pretty close to the top of the list also.

However, there's very little difference of opinion as to the urgency of keeping Uncle Sam loaded for bear, ashore and afloat, in the face of present world conditions. There's considerable difference of opinion, though, relative to the best system of handling our near-infinity of desperately ticklish foreign relationships.

Of course, a committee chairman, in either house of congress, casts only his individual vote when an issue is balloted on. Nevertheless, he does exercise a good bit more than the average lawmaker's influence along the line of legislation that his particular committee is recognized as specializing on.

Well, when Chairman Key Pittman of the senate's foreign affairs committee died not long ago, Senator Walter F. George succeeded him. Chairmanship vacancies almost invariably are filled out by a seniority basis, but an inflexible rule, Senator Pat Harrison was Senator George's senior, but Pat already was finance committee chairman and preferred to remain so, and it isn't customary for any senator to hold more than one important chairmanship.

So George got the post, being next in line. He hadn't been a New Dealer, and for that reason there was talk of sidetracking him, but it would have involved a meaner fight than the New Dealers liked to precipitate.

After all, though, George turned out to be heartily co-operative with the administration on all questions of foreign policy.

George Takes Over Finances

The very lately, Finance Chairman Harrison died, Senator George was due to follow him, provided he relinquished his foreign affairs chairmanship. He did so, and now is finance chairman. Possibly it was a slight come-down, temporarily, but (gosh!) how important he'll be when it comes to framing tax laws to meet the defense debt, we're pulling up! Furthermore, after the Axis is licked, international relationships probably won't be so messy as they are today, and the foreign chairmanship will be materially deflated.

In the meantime, Senator Tom Connolly has the foreign affairs job. He inherited it from Senator George. Senator Robert F. Wagner was on the list ahead of him, but Bob's banking and currency chairman and preferred to remain so.

It's a dandy arrangement from the administration's angle.

It always has been a wee bit suspicious of George because of his past anti-New Dealership. But it isn't afraid of him at the top of the finance committee. He'll have to advocate taxes, whether or not, to take care of that defense indebtedness—and he's pretty good at financial legislation.

And Tom Connolly, while he's differed from the administration on a few questions, is rip-roaringly in favor of all its foreign policies. He's a first rate scrapper, too, and can fight for 'em like fury.

Navy Chairman David I. Walsh and Military Affairs Chairman Robert R. Reynolds aren't so administratively satisfactory.

Two Headaches Dave Walsh has held his chairmanship for a long while. He's for a thumping big navy alright but is pretty skittish as to some of the uses he surmises that the president, at his commander-in-chief, is liable to put it to.

Bob Reynolds gravitated into his military leadership, by seniority, upon the death of Chairman Morris Sheppard, not far back. He's for a whole of an army, but strongly opposes its employment an inch outside of the western hemisphere. He isn't an enthusiast for the administration's foreign policies either. On this subject he's a dear of a worry to administrationists, for he's been an extensive world traveler in his day, understands overseas conditions better than the people he disagrees with, can out-argue 'em—has written books about his journeyings and speaks with authority.

Tom Connolly, where he is, is ideal. He's the White House's angle. Walter George is O.K.—more so now than he was when he was where Tom is at present. Bob Reynolds and Dave Walsh are headaches.

Quite a lot of ado was made over that story about the grocer in Monongahela, Pa., who put up a huge blackboard in front of his store with this inscription:

Another Delayed Decision

Washington, Aug. 9.

IT is getting to be one of the President's confirmed habits not to fill promptly the vacancies which occur in the higher offices within his gift. Whether this is because it does not seem important to him or because he likes to keep the aspirants and the newspapers guessing, it is difficult to say. At any rate, it is a fact that, even when his mind has been made up from the start, it has withheld the announcement for weeks—without any very clear reason.

HIS recent appointments to the Supreme Court were an instance of this tendency to postpone. The vacant Attorney Generalship is another. Perhaps, it is not as vital now as in normal times, but it does seem that the Department of Justice should not be permitted to continue indefinitely without a head. When Mr. Robert H. Jackson resigned to go on the Supreme Court it was generally understood that Solicitor General Francis Biddle would succeed him. So sure did the usually well-informed Administration aides feel about this that there was real surprise the Biddle appointment was not announced simultaneously with the appointment of Mr. Jackson and Senator Byrnes to the court.

THAT was six weeks ago. And it has not been announced yet. In the meantime, Mr. Biddle has been running the department and attending Cabinet meetings as Acting Attorney General. Evidently, the delay causes speculation. The general expectation still is that Mr. Biddle will be named, but the failure of the President to do so in the six weeks since the vacancy occurred would seem to indicate a certain reluctance on his part. Two views for this reluctance are advanced.

ONE is that the President hesitates to nominate Mr. Biddle because of the certainty of opposition to him in the Senate and the hostility evinced toward him by one or two of the higher officials in the Department. Mr. Biddle is an exceedingly agreeable man of the highest character and real ability. Nevertheless, he is not free from enemies among his colleagues and associates. In the Senate, the reason for the opposition is the suspicion that Mr. Biddle is very much farther to the Left than any man holding the office to which he aspires should be. This may do Mr. Biddle an injustice, but there are those who insist that he is at least, a "pink" that his tendencies are distinctly radical and his close friends more so.

BY contrast, it is said, he makes his former chief, Mr. Jackson, appear (Continued On Page Five)

Hold fast to liberty!

1769—Robert Field, portrait painter, miniaturist, and engraver, in Gloucestershire, England. Field visited Mr. Vernon in 1805 and painted Mrs. Washington from life. Most of his American paintings in oil were unsigned, and some of the Philadelphia Sturges are suspected of being his work.

1819—William Thomas Green Morton, dental surgeon, at Charlton, Mass. He first used sulphuric ether gas in the extraction of a tooth in 1846 and his subsequent demonstrations made the value of sulphuric ether known to the medical world.

1877—Mahonri Mackintosh Young, sculptor, painter and etcher, at Salt Lake City. He is best known for his statuettes, pictures of laborer and cowboys, which exhibit close observation of nature and virile form. One of his best known works is "Man With Pick" in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

O. P. M. Statistician Is Checking Up In London

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Stacy May, chief statistician of the O. P. M. in London today to attempt to speed up American delivery of war supplies to Britain, reportedly talked about British needs for a new lend-lease program and to check up on British uses of American steel.

May, before he left Washington to fly to England, apparently aboard an American bomber ferried to the British Isles, refused to talk about details of his trip.

"It would be highly undesirable," he declared.

May gave International News Service permission to publish today the fact that he was going to London. This was to give him time to reach the English capital before news of his plans was released.

The O. P. M. official carried with him a brief case full of secret memoranda about American production of planes, tanks, ships and guns. He also had figures showing how much war materials had been delivered to the British under the present $7,000,000,000 lend-lease program and how much more remains.

To Ask Figures
It also is reported that May will ask the British for figures on armament production in England and on how much more American aid Great Britain will need to carry on a successful war effort in 1942 and 1943.

May will request figures about British shipping and the use of cargo space on English vessels. They will be used to see if more shipping space can be made available to get American supplies across the Atlantic.

While May is to remain in London for two weeks, information he obtained, treasury and budget officials are preparing a new lend-lease bill.

Persistent reports in Washington say that the new lend-lease bill may be valued at as much as $14,000,000,000 or $15,000,000,000.

May denied that he was going to talk about steel. However, it was learned that figures he obtains will be closely examined by American officials.

For some time, reports have been heard in Washington that Great Britain is trans-shipping steel sent to it by the United States to South America. Defense officials say that the reports are unfounded, and they are expected to use May's figures to "kill the rumors once and for all."

Some New Castle Soldiers Selected For Army Games

Will Take Part In Extensive Maneuvers In Louisiana And Texas

(By JOHN BALL)
(Special News Correspondent)

CAMP SHELBY, Miss., Aug. 8.—Although the 190 Field Artillery Regiment as a whole which includes the two New Castle units, the Service Battery and Battery F of the Second Battalion will not see action in the forthcoming Army games in Louisiana and Texas a fortunate group of New Castle artillerymen will be in the midst of the "fighting".

They were selected by Major Frank S. Buchanan, Regimental adjutant and designated on detached service for the duration of the maneuvers. By September 11th their tour of duty should be completed and will probably report back to Shelby about October 1st.

The following list of soldiers, the majority being army transport mechanics, technicians for the mechanized organizations, chauffeurs and motor transport administrative non-commissioned officers left here August 4 under the command of Second Lieut. Richard B. Gutshall, Service Battery and Motor Officer of the Second Battalion. Twenty-two army cargo vehicles were manned in convoy and headed for Louisiana to take over their new assignment as advanced details for Headquarters Company, 5th Army Corps.

Representing the Service Battery the men detached are Master Sergeant O. E. Miller, Staff Sgt. Charles Callahan, Corporal William Miron, Battalion Motor Dispatcher, Private First Class Specialist Samuel S. Travers, Private First Class William Harlan.

From Battery F the men now assigned to V Corps work are Pfc. Adam Smith, Pfc. John L. Palmer.

In augmentation to the above former Guardsmen from New Castle, twenty-one basic privates, selective service inductees and members of the Lawrence county batteries accompanied the detachment.

An unprecedented series of adventures experiences are anticipated by these local boys now enroute to this country's greatest large-scale military maneuvers so the remainder of the personnel here plan to do their "fighting" via remote control having arranged to receive communications regularly from those out in the field.

Knudsen Says U. S. Doing Grand Job In Defense Production

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 9.—The United States is doing "a grand job" in national defense, William S. Knudsen, director of the Office of Production Management, declared in an interview Friday.

"We are picking up every month," said Knudsen. "The country will reach its peak in national defense production in the summer or fall of 1942."

Knudsen, accompanied by Rear Admiral John H. Towers, chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics, and other defense officials, have been touring eastern defense plants for the past three days. Friday they visited the huge plant of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation in Paterson, which is turning out airplane engines at a rapid rate.

Knudsen indicated he was greatly pleased over the manner in which the plants of the country are producing defense material. Everywhere he has gone, he said, work has been moving forward "up to expectations."

"I'm banking on the initiative of the men who run the plants," said Knudsen. "I'm not running the plants, you know. I try to give all the cooperation I can. I ask the heads of the plants what the government can do in the way of providing materials, and put the rest up to them."

"It's the initiative of each plant that brings results."

Axis Is Aware

In response to a question, Knudsen smilingly remarked that yes, he felt that the axis powers realize that America can really produce.

The four big items on our national defense program, he said, are planes, tanks, ships and guns, adding that ammunition goes along, of course, with the guns.

In the past few days he has been visiting airplane factories in the east and prior to this he spent a couple of weeks on the Pacific coast looking the situation over. Knudsen pointed out that a year ago the country was in the process of expansion but now things are moving well.

"The money we spent a year ago is now coming out in actual production of the equipment needed," he said.

Knudsen, who a year ago was worried about the machine tool situation, seemed to have lost that worry. He pointed out that in 1939 America's production of machine tools was $200,000,000.

In 1940, he said, it was $400,000,000. The three-year average prior to 1939 was only $130,000,000.

"We are now running at the rate of $800,000,000 worth of machine tools for this year," said Knudsen, a ring in his voice.

"What is the chief bottleneck?" Knudsen was asked.

"Time," was his laconic reply. "We still have plenty of work ahead."

Knudsen was asked if there was anything that is worrying him now in his big national defense production job. "Yes—strikes," he replied with characteristic frankness. "When you have strikes you lose man hours. When you lose man hours you are holding up the national defense program."

He remarked that when the country reaches 50 per cent of its "top schedule" everything would be all right. The country, he added, is rapidly nearing that point.

Big Oil Tanker Explosion Fatal To Two Persons

Wife Of Tanker Captain And Deckhand Believed Dead Following Blast

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Aug. 9.—Half-submerged, the huge oil tanker, M. V. Transister, smoldered in the River Rouge today as Federal Bureau of Investigation agents pressed a probe of possible sabotage in the explosion which burned the vessel and reportedly killed two persons, one the wife of the captain.

The Transister, loaded with 700,000 gallons of high test gasoline destined for Canadian stations of the Austin Oil Company, exploded three-quarters of a mile from the Ford Motor company's Rouge plant last night.

The crewless ship drifted menacingly downstream, tall flames threatening gasoline tanks along the river banks. It moved under drawbridges and bumped against docks of the American Chemical Co. where flames destroyed fences and several sheds.

Powerful streams of water from fire tugs finally forced the boat into shallow water where it grounded.

The ship is owned by the Transit Tankers Terminal Ltd., of Montreal. Believed dead were Mrs. Alda Trembley, 43, of Murray Bay, Que., wife of Captain Rodolphe Trembley, and Roger Frechette, 20-year-old deck hand from Drummondville, Que.

Fifteen other persons saved themselves by leaping from the flaming ship and swimming to shore. Wayne County Prosecutor William E. Dowling said several crew members believed the blast was caused by the hot sun increasing pressure inside the vessel's gas tanks.

Two American Youths Captured With Red Army

WITH THE FINNISH ARMY INSIDE RUSSIA, VIA BERLIN, Aug. 9.—Two American-born boys who have lived in Soviet Russia for the past several years and who were captured by Finnish troops in a battle in the woods today volunteered information on inside conditions in the Red army.

Hearing of their capture, I hurried to a barn-like provisional internment camp where I found Allen Janhunen from Houghton, Wash., and Keijo Doyle of Pittsburgh—both hungry, weary and disheveled.

They were mixed in with a batch of white Russians, Ukrainians, Russo-Finns, Tartars and Mongolians, and both had one desire—to get back home again.

"Never again," they chorused. "All we hope for is to get back to America."

Janhunen's father, an engineer, was summoned to Russia in 1932 to act as a specialist at Petrosavsk. His son joined the Red army as a non-commissioned officer.

Wheat-Growing Farmers Will Meet August 15 To Protest Quota Program

Wheat growing farmers of Pennsylvania will meet at Hershey, Pa., on August 15, to register opposition to the wheat quotas and penalties established by the federal government. It is announced today. The following statement has been issued at the meeting and the purpose of the session:

A mass meeting of wheat-growing farmers of Pennsylvania will be held Friday, August 15 beginning at 10 a. m. Standard Time in the Hershey Theatre, Hershey, Pennsylvania for the purpose of registering opposition to the establishment of wheat quotas and penalties by the federal government in Pennsylvania. This meeting has been decided upon as the outgrowth of protests throughout the state against the continued increase of federal governmental regulation of agriculture.

Wheat quotas were established by the United States Department of Agriculture in the face of the fact that only about 2,000 of the 18,000 wheat-growing farmers who were eligible to vote approved the action in the referendum held May 31. Since the privilege to vote on this important matter was extended only to those having 15 acres or more sown to wheat, approximately 65,000 wheat-growing farmers of this state were disfranchised. The establishment of penalties on excess wheat represents a retroactive tax which has always been held an unconstitutional levy.

The unfairness in the establishment of quotas and the imposition of a penalty of 40c a bushel on excess wheat is readily seen when it is appreciated that these regulations were promulgated after the wheat had already been sown and was nearing the time to be harvested.

It is generally felt that the imposition of this regulation represents only another step nearer the ultimate regimentation of agriculture by the United States government.

Unless definite steps are taken against agricultural operations being governmentally regulated it can well be seen that this system will soon be developed to the point where the farmer might be returned to the status of serfdom.

The success of this movement necessarily depends upon the interest to be shown by the farmers. This is a matter in which every wheat-growing farmer, regardless of his acreage, must be interested. It is essential that farmers attend the meeting in telling force. It is urged, therefore, that you use every effort to have as many farmers as possible from your locality in attendance. Remember the date and have your county represented in full force.

Some picture theaters have prolonged hours to attract workers on night shifts, the Department of Commerce says.

Doyle was attracted to Russia in 1934 by guided promises made by a Russian employment agency in New York. He also lived at Petrosavsk.

Doyle said he "worked like a slave" was constantly watched and fined half his wages if he abandoned his work-bench for five minutes.

Janhunen, while better off, joined Doyle in warning any American against signing up with the Red army.

"In peace time we had fair food," Doyle said, "but the Red army is a hard life."

We knew little of anything beyond our own company. Most of us couldn't pal up due to strange tongues and nationalities, like the Tartars.

"Our only teaching aside from military school was political. Every day we'd get hours of reading and talking, mostly about the greatness of Lenin and Stalin and the fact that all capitalistic countries—our enemies—must be smashed."

"Nothing was taught in school except Communist matters and that all foreigners are devils."

Urge Selection Of St. Louis As U. S. Sub-Capital

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS—St. Louis is being urged as a logical sub-capital for the United States, should the government be forced to transfer some of its agencies from Washington to make room for rapidly expanding defense establishments.

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce already has submitted to the director of the budget and agencies most likely to be affected complete data about office space, housing, labor, schools and the city's relation to surrounding territory.

An exponent of St. Louis as a sub-capital for the nation is Circuit Attorney Thomas C. Hennings of St. Louis, a former representative in Congress, who is urging other organizations to join the Chamber of Commerce in pressing the city's claims.

Important federal offices are already centered in St. Louis. Hennings pointed out. The war department recently announced purchase of the Mart building for its main medical supply depot. Many farm leaders have advocated a shift of the agriculture department office to the Middle West. St. Louis, because of its central location, is regarded favorably for a transfer of this office.

Summing up the proposal to establish sub-capitals, Hennings said: "Couldn't we avoid many of the evils of over-centralization by establishing sub-capitals to handle local business? Let Washington handle the strictly national phases."

Some people have queer ideas about the war for the same reason that college studies mystify one who missed high school.

To Increase Loads In American Ships

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—In a move to enable American ships to increase their cargo capacities, President Roosevelt today issued a proclamation suspending for the duration of the emergency American adherence to the international load line convention.

The load line convention, signed at London on July 5, 1930, established a water safety line above which ships were not to be loaded.

Under the suspension of this convention insofar as the United States is concerned, future load lines on American vessels will be fixed by the Secretary of Commerce pursuant to the provisions of the act of Congress approved on March 2, 1929, stipulating that the load lines must not endanger the safety of the ship.

(International News Service)

CALDWELL, N. J., Aug. 9.—Picket lines were formed today around the Curtiss-Wright propellor division plant where the A. F. of L. International Association of Machinists called a strike as a challenge to results of a National Labor Relations Board election at the plant.

Moretti Candidate For District Attorney

Announces Candidacy For County Office At Republican Primaries In September

FRANK O. MORETTI

Frank O. Moretti of 1810 Highland avenue, Second Ward, New Castle, today announced his candidacy for the office of District Attorney of Lawrence County. His statement is as follows:

I am the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Moretti of 431 Park Avenue, New Castle, Lawrence County, Pennsylvania, my father being a retired tin mill worker. I was born and reared in the city of New Castle. I attended the public schools of New Castle and upon graduation from New Castle high school, I entered Westminster College, from which college I was graduated in 1927. Upon completing my work at Westminster College I entered the University of Pennsylvania, from which university I received the degree of Bachelor of Laws in 1930. In 1930, I was admitted to the practice of law in all the courts of Lawrence County and in the supreme and superior courts of Pennsylvania and in the district court of the United States for the western district of Pennsylvania.

Since my admittance to the various courts, I have been actively engaged in the practice of law, and during that time, I have appeared in both the civil and criminal courts of Lawrence County.

In May, 1940, I was appointed assistant city collector of the city of New Castle and in that capacity, I have appeared in court representing the city of New Castle in important cases.

I submit my qualifications and experience to the voters of Lawrence County as recommendation for the position. It is my purpose, if nominated and elected district attorney, to discharge the duties of my office impartially and efficiently.

I respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

THE SALVATION ARMY

One of the finest tributes ever given the Salvation Army was given by Honorable Fiorello H. LaGuardia, mayor of New York City.

LaGuardia said: "Many people think that all the Salvation Army does is to give doughnuts and coffee to persons who are destitute and hungry. Of course, the Army does do that, and has been doing it for 60 years, but that is only a surface indication of all the humanitarian work that the Salvation Army accomplishes."

"Day in and day out, 24 hours a day, the Army performs services that no great city like New York can do without. Whenever there is an emergency, whether there is a great disaster, such as a flood or a hurricane involving thousands of people, or whether there is an individual human problem, such as an abandoned baby of a hungry family, the Army is always ready to step in with a helping hand. It provides food, shelter and first aid. It acts first, and investigates later."

"Both officially as mayor, and personally as a sympathetic observer, and friend of the work of the Salvation Army over a period of many years, I felicitate you upon the passing of 60 years of hard and well accomplished work."

Another tribute, given by Franklin Delano Roosevelt, president of the United States, speaks well of the Army's work. A portion of his statement follows: "The Salvation Army is now known all over the world and honored wherever known."

Erickson Gives Pirates One-Hit

Cubs Rookie Heaver Snaps Six-Game Winning Streak Of Ramping Pirates

By PAT ROBINSON
(International News Service Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Until today the only thing we knew about Paul "Suede" Erickson was that he was not to be confused with Richard Merrill Erickson.
Now, however, Paul "Suede" Erickson is a name we are not likely to forget. Nor are the Pirates likely to forget him. For it was he who pitched a one-hit, 1-0 victory over them for the Cubs yesterday, snapped their winning streak at six games and dropped them 8½ games back of the league-leading Dodgers.

That was Suede's first major league victory and judging by the way he mowed down the hard-hitting Pirates it certainly won't be his last.
Offhand, we can't seem to recall any pitcher whose maiden major league victory was more sensational and only for Bob Elliott's harmless single in the seventh, this 23 year old right hander would be in baseball's hall of fame.

This big fellow—his six-feet-two and scales 200—bats from Zion, Ill. He has had four years in the minors. Two at Ponca City, one at St. Joseph where he was strike-out king of the Western Association and last year at Tulsa where he picked up a few tips from Dizzy Dean.

His chief stock in trade is said to be speed. And let's see—wasn't that the same commodity that brought fame to Walter Johnson, Pete Alexander, Smokey Joe Wood, Bullet Bob Bush, Lefty Grove, Dizzy Dean, Dazzy Vance and Bob Feller?
Allows One-Hit
Speed and a little control can carry a youngster far in baseball and young Erickson seems to have both. That is the same combination Whitlow Wyatt used yesterday in scoring his 15th victory at the expense of Jim Tobin of the Braves. Wyatt gave only six hits and breezed in, 6 to 2. That made seven in a row for the Dodgers and moved them back into the lead over the idle Cardinals who today must start an all-important series with the rampant Pirates.

Meanwhile the Giants were traveling 11 innings to beat the lowly Phils, 3-2, in a game they should have lost 2-1 in regulation innings. Bill Lohrman went the route for the Giants and was returned a winner over Cy Blanton when Babe Young opened the 11th with his 15th homer. An error by Merrill may have given the Giants an unearned run that sent the game into overtime.

Slaughter Of Innocents
The slaughter of pitching innocents was terrific in the other circuit where the Red Sox hammered out a 15-8 decision over the Senators and where the White Sox teed off on the Browns to win, 16 to 2, in a game in which Taft Wright collected two homers and George Dickey one, the three blows being good for eight runs.

And in a night game at Philadelphia, the Athletics defeated the Yankees 5 to 3 after garnering four runs in a fifth inning rally which included Bob Johnson's homer with two men on base. Charley Keller was the Yankee battering hero with three doubles and a single in four times at bat.

Grid Candidates To Meet Thursday

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh Issues First Call For Thursday, August 14

Football season is less than a month away now and next Thursday night at 7 o'clock at the stadium the New Castle High candidates will have their first meeting.
Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh made it strong that he wants the boys to be prompt in reporting at the designated time. The candidates will be fitted for uniforms at the meeting Thursday night and fundamentals of the game will be gone over.

First Game Sept. 5
Any boy not reporting on Thursday night unless he has a qualified A-1 excuse will not be considered a 1941 candidate.
The first game will be at the Taggart stadium, Friday night, September 5, bringing Grove City High here. The New Castle High team will go to Muddy Creek Falls the final week in August, on Monday, the 25th.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

When fans flock into The Arena, August 26 to see 16 amateurs held in eight bouts, they'll be asked to "shut the door" 90 cents and 60 cents for their seats, the Jefferson A. C. pressed because of higher prices for various articles used in the "bust the nose" game has been found the athletic organization on the short end of the string, financially speaking, following recent bouts. The prices will include the tax. No boxing shows have been held recently because of warm weather, but now that the nights are cool they believe that this, plus a perk of industrial conditions, may make their pugilistic efforts worthwhile.

Billy Jolly, former boxing promoter, circulated in Washington street yesterday afternoon and other boys who assembled in his Jolly bout were glad to greet the railroader. Bill has a hankering to return to the game that resulted in his becoming known from coast to coast and lake to gulf. Under his banner many of the professional topnotchers of a decade ago appeared and fans will agree that the matches were well the outlay of finance.

The J. Pepe vs Hardesty pitching duel Sunday at Bessemer, should be worthwhile. So far this season Hillsville has not been able to defeat Hardesty. However, things may be different tomorrow. Hillsville plucked some classy ball players for the second half and for the first time this season, in fact for some years, Hillsville is leading the Lawrence county circuit.

Six boys who appeared here as amateurs now are figuring in the professional fight news. Several of them are main-bouters in cities as large as Chicago and Pittsburgh, which goes a long way to prove that they were the cream of amateur. Sammy Secret, who boxed main bouts in Pittsburgh and Chicago, Mike Raffa has main-bouted also in large cities. Tommy Yarosz is getting up in the pro game while Sonny Horne, Pete Spott, Mike Lucas and others known here are now drawing down good money for their fistie wars.

Red Coeshrane, welterweight champion, when mustered into the navy, will be a physical director. Gene Tunney, former world's heavyweight champion, is the director of all naval physical exercise. Matt McGowan of Niles is grooming a fighter, who has boxed here, for the national senior lightweight title. Mello has been in the United States only three years. Since his arrival he has participated in 26 fights, winning 22, his tutor, McGowan reports. Two of his triumphs resulted in his winning the Youngstown Golden Glove 116-pound crown and the Youngstown K. of C. 126-pound championship.

What would happen were Russell Baxter, Frankie Moran, Les Leasure and a few other localities to turn pro? Would they go forward? Some believe that Moran, the most experienced of all local batters excepting Charlie Arkkett, who is a real veteran of amateur wars, is ready. Baxter is coming along fine and every place he fights he draws plaudits. Les Leasure is a hard-socking, tough fellow and if indications count Baby Face Leasure, his brother is going to win favor of fans in amateur bouts here this winter.

Announcement that the Lou Novak-Joe Louis top prize may be $30,000 shows Mike Jacobs, promoter, has a lot of nerve. Maybe the fans will fall for that prize and perhaps they will not. Don McNeil, national champ from Oklahoma City, and Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Calif., clash in the feature semi-final of the Eastern Grass Courts tennis tourney. Bitsy Grant of Atlanta and Wayne Sabbin of Reno battle in the other half.
CHICAGO — Charley "Greek" George, Chicago Cub catcher, is also a business man. He owns two restaurants in his home town, Brunswick, Ga.

West Pittsburg To Play Croton

Game Sunday Will Draw Large Crowd To West Pittsburg Field

The West Pittsburg baseball field Sunday will be packed to capacity for the game between Croton A. C. and the West Pittsburg Gas House team. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.
Co-Managers Danny DeGenova and John Marky have three good hurlers to send to the mound—Dombeck, Brady or Lazar and then it may be Powell. Croton will use Stone in all probability or the veteran Dolly Hartman may get the assignment. Nevertheless it will be a game well worth seeing.

Slovaks At Moose
The Slovaks will go to Marshall field for a game with the Moose club and will have either Janoksi or Balla on the hill against Picato or Updegraff, or it may be Rainey. The Lawrence Indies will journey to the Lee avenue field to tussle with the West Side team and will have in all possibility young Joe Wik or Majoche on the hill against Eddie "Feller" Stewart or Faller. The Elders are slated for a game at the Sampson street field opposing the Ryantown team. Manager Joe O'Leary will have Withrow or Davies on the hill with Twink Campbell slated to throw for the Ryantownians.

Johnson Bronze A. A. On Outing

The Johnson Bronze Athletic Association members are having their annual outing and picnic this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Algoma Park off the Neshaunock Falls road.
A picnic supper will take place after a program of sports and other forms of entertainment. Paul Palla is the president of the Bronze Athletic Association and has worked hard to make the outing a big success.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Saturday sports vignettes:

New Castle's free baseball school all-star aggregation, now being selected by Al Kreuz and Glenn Wright, instructors, will face Butler in the western Pennsylvania division play-off. The game will be played in Butler on Tuesday evening, August 19. A squad of 18 players is being picked by the diamond pros.

Herb "Babe" Barna, who was recently acquired by the New York Giants from Minneapolis, played end at West Virginia U. in 1936 and was touted as All-American grid material. Connie Mack plucked Barna off the campus in 1937, but let him go in a deal with Memphis. Wally Berger, the veteran outfielder, hung up his spikes after receiving his conditional release from the Los Angeles club recently.

The Georgia-Centre college football game, originally carded for Athens, has been shifted to Atlanta for November 15. Joe DiMaggio received $8,500 when he first broke into the New York Yankee lineup. Mrs. Joe Louis has been on tour as a model for fashion shows.

Yale Athletic association is operating on a budget this year for the first time in a decade. Johnny Sturm, New York Yankee first sacker, will join the Benedictus by world series time. Bing Crosby has offered caddies of the California Lakeside course a $100 merchandise check to be handed over the first time he breaks 70 on the course. The offer has been standing a long time.

Connie Mack of the Athletics has conceded the American league pennant to the New York Yankees. It doesn't take Connie long to catch

Loses Ground

Many Leaders Slip Point
And More In Abbreviated Session Today

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The stock market continued to lose ground in today's abbreviated session, many leaders slipping a point or more and a few blue-chips as much as 2.

Selling was carried over from the previous close. It was the eleventh consecutive session in which the industrial average had finished lower. All sections gave way and final prices were close to the day's worst, despite some support in the second hour.

Allied Chemical and Case were among the stocks to drop 2 points.

Steels reacted easily with Bethlehem and U. S. Steel each down about a point. Similar losses were suffered by Anaconda, Union Carbide, Douglas Aircraft, Pepsi-Cola and International Harvester.

Lesser declines were shown by motors, electrical equipments, rails, oil, shipbuilding stocks, rubbers and mail orders.

A handful of stocks held around previous closing levels, as Eastman Kodak, American Telephone and National Biscuit.

Bonds turned downward on a wide front.

Hartman Recovers Money Taken From
Rossi Residence

Suspected Ellwood Youth Is Located In Chicago By Local Chief Of Police

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 9.—Chief of Police, Ernest Hartman, has returned from Chicago, Ill., where he succeeded in locating an Ellwood youth suspected by police to have been involved in the robbery of $1,875 from the Patsy Rossi home, 500 Glen avenue. Hartman recovered $1,524 of the original sum, he reports. The sixteen-year-old youth arrested by Hartman was Donald Ruhe, Fourth ward. He has been given into the custody of county juvenile officials.

The money was taken from the Rossi home during the past week while the family was away on a trip. It was hidden in a steel box, the family told police. Ruhe told Hartman that the original sum amounted to $1,750, leaving a shortage of $234, over the amount recovered, the officer reports.

Hartman located the boy in a Chicago Heights boarding house. Hartman said Ruhe had negotiated for the purchase of a car with a race track "punk", and that he had a great deal of trouble in getting a refund, finally losing the commission and other charges. This accounted for a part of the shortage and the rest was for hotel and other bills, contracted by the boy.

While no other arrests have been made, two other local boys are suspected by police of having a part in the robbery.

Millions Of Eggs Will Be Required In Army Maneuvers

(Special To The News)
CAMP POLK, La., Aug. 9.—Two and one half million dozen eggs. That's just one of the hundreds of items of food that the Third Army will supply in its more than a quarter million troops in the Louisiana maneuver area this summer and fall, according to headquarters, Third Army.

The amount of food, fuel, forage and equipment required for this fighting force in its entirety is beyond human imagination, but a breakdown to carload lots make it conceivable.

Some Of Food Required
Here are examples of the amounts of food taken from this gigantic shelf of groceries:

Over 187,165 quarts of mayonnaise will season a salad made up of 36,714 bunches of green onions, 239,530 bunches of celery and nearly 700,000 pounds of fresh tomatoes and 286,000 heads of lettuce. There is the item of 34,888 quarts of vinegar. Among the larger items are nine and one half million pounds of spuds (the old army standby), 14,278,975 fresh oranges, over 11 million pounds of bread and over 10 million apples.

Getting down to staple items—over a million and a half pounds of bacon will be used, as will more than two and a half million pounds of sugar and nearly 7,000,000 pounds of fresh and canned beef.

Third Army soldiers will heap 900 tons of food in their mess kits daily; that's 1,980,000 pounds or over six pounds per diet per soldier. So, if the Third Army stays in the field 55 days, that's 54,450 tons of food to be eaten. That tonnage will fill ten or 11 of the average sea-going freighters, or a line of railroad cars over a mile long.

When it's impractical to use field kitchens, the boys in khaki will eat Type C field rations—six cans per day. Breakfast consists of a soft, sweetened biscuit (not hard tack), sugar and a sort of synthetic coffee, which dissolved in water, tastes like the real article. The noon can and the supper can may be alternated; one contains beans and the other, hash.

Field Kitchen Food

Food prepared in the field kitchens will be as nearly like regular garrison rations as is practical; of course, certain items have to be eliminated because of their bulky and perishable characteristics. Mess sergeants make every effort to supply the men with as much fresh vegetables and fruit as possible, particularly citrus fruits. Some days soldiers take sandwiches from field kitchens into the field.

Huge depots are established at certain points, where groceries are received by rail. From these depots it will move to regulating stations and rail heads in or near the theater of operations. Trucks haul the food to the individual field kitchens.

The Third Army bakes its own bread in field ovens in the New Orleans area. The loaves will be moved by rail and truck, much the same as other food, except that it will naturally have to be handled more rapidly. Early estimates put the total pounds of bread to be used in the Third Army maneuvers at 11,692,400.

Huge Supply Problem
Besides the problem of keeping over 250,000 soldiers' stomachs full, there will be about 11,500 horses and mules nickering for three "squares" a day. These animals require during the maneuvers 140,000 pounds of grain and 164,000 pounds of hay to keep them happy and in working condition. At least 3,727 tons of grain and 4,338 tons of hay will be consumed before the maneuvers are completed.

The Third Army's 30,000 gasoline-consuming vehicles will consume 450,000 gallons in a day. Roughly, that's 59 railroad tank cars of gasoline a day to keep the Third Army mobile, and keep its stomach full of cooked food.

For months before the maneuvers began, clerks in the motor transport section ordered thousands of parts for the vehicles in order that no vehicle might be idle because of a damaged or wornout part. Repairs are sub-divided according to their nature, the length of time required to complete, the skill required to perform them and the weight and size of the parts to be replaced.

For instance, a truck driver might be able to adjust a carburetor, but he couldn't do much about a stripped gear or a broken axle.

Vehicles will be repaired in the maneuver area as far as is practical and returned to their proper units. Those vehicles damaged beyond field repair will be towed or hauled back to their respective corps area motor repair depots, repaired and sent back to the maneuver area under their own power.

Trace Skin Cancer To Excessive Sunbath

Government Health Men Warn Repeated 'Burns' May Bring Trouble

Severe sunburn, incurred season after season, may cause cancer of the skin, the United States Public Health Service warned today.

Scientists of the National Cancer Institute of the U. S. Public Health Service produce skin cancer in animals by ultra-violet radiation—the element in sunshine which burns the skin. There is also circumstantial evidence that sunburn causes human skin cancer. Farmers and sailors, and other groups most exposed to sunshine, develop skin cancer most frequently. Further, human skin cancer develops most often on parts of the body constantly exposed to the sun. Blondes are more susceptible than brunettes. Skin cancer occurs least often in negroes.

The health service said that sunlight in the country is more dangerous than in cities. At the beach or snowy mountain tops sunlight is most dangerous.

"Skyline Drive" Open In State

New Scenic Route Is Announced In Eastern Part Of Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Aug. 9.—Pennsylvania has a new "skyline drive" between Scranton and Carbondale now open for public travel, the state Department of Commerce reported today. Special dedication services were held July 25 as a feature of the Scranton Diamond Jubilee and centennial celebration.

The new stretch of road scales the shelf of the mountains overlooking industrial towns and the picturesque Lackawanna Valley. Cost of the highway was approximately $1,500,000 and shortens the distance between the two communities. Scranton and Carbondale, from 15 miles to 11.43 miles. It passes over some of the richest coal beds in the world.

At the southern terminus of the new roadway in North Scranton, where it intersects with Route 611, is located what is called Pennsylvania's first true traffic oval to be designed by state highway department engineers. The oval is 250 feet wide and 350 feet long. In the center stands a monument of anthracite mounted on a granite pedestal.

Another recently-dedicated skyline drive in Pennsylvania is the one leading to Waggoner's Gap from Carlisle, forming a connection between Cumberland and Perry counties. At the summit, which has an altitude of 1,510 feet, ample space has been provided for parking space because of the unusual scene which can be viewed from there. It is said that on clear days it is possible to see smoke from the plants in Hershey and the dome of the capitol in Harrisburg.
